Learning with AI: Empowering Technical School Educators and Students for the Digital Age

From September 20 to 27, 2025, a group of 10 students and 2 accompanying teachers from I.I.S. Einstein – De Lorenzo took part in the Erasmus+ mobility program in Karditsa, Greece, hosted by the 1st Vocational School of Karditsa.

Workshops and Collaborative Learning

Throughout the week, students attended practical workshops and activities focused on technology, teamwork, and digital innovation. The collaborative environment allowed Italian and Greek students to work together, exchange ideas, and experience new teaching and learning methods.

The mobility, part of the project “AI Integration for Vocational Excellence”, offered participants the opportunity to explore innovative approaches to digital education and strengthen their skills for the future.

Exploring Greece

Beyond the classroom, the group explored Greek culture, visited local landmarks, and discovered the history and beauty of the region. The experience helped students broaden their horizons, build confidence, and develop meaningful connections with their peers abroad.

Certificate Award Ceremony

At the end of the mobility, students received their official Erasmus+ participation certificates, recognizing the skills and competencies gained during the activities in Greece. The certificate ceremony was an important moment, celebrating the dedication of the group and marking the successful completion of their learning experience at the 1st Vocational School of Karditsa.

A Valuable Experience

This Erasmus+ mobility enriched both personal and professional growth. Students and teachers returned with new skills, new friendships, and a broader perspective on education and European cooperation.
